Creating Confident
On-Camera Communicators

The world of work has forever changed with the rapid adoption of video communication across the corporate landscape. However, the transition to a video-centric culture can be challenging even with the best tools. Most people do not feel comfortable or confident speaking on camera - even a small one. Many are also making minor but important mistakes which are magnified through the lens. These miscues can have costly consequences - a virtual sales call that falls flat, a companywide meeting that loses impact, an absence of cohesion and productivity in a dispersed team.

Join Speaker Dynamics' CEO and Chief Confidence Creator Karin Reed as she translates decades of experience as an Emmy-award winning journalist, professional spokesperson and On-Camera Coach into tips and tricks that will help you maximize your video communication skills and overcome barriers in an ever-growing virtual realm.

LEARNER EXPERIENCE

Each course contains approximately 1.5 hours of content.

Learners are encouraged to spread out their learning over time - spending 5 - 10 minutes a day building their skills.

Each course contains a mix of interactive lessons via video, scenarios where you can see the techniques applied and missions where you are given a real-world assignment to complete.
